

ChipMOS FILES PATENT INFRINGEMENT SUIT AGAINST WALTON ADVANCED ENGINEERING INC.

Hsinchu, Taiwan, September 27, 2007 – ChipMOS TECHNOLOGIES (Bermuda) LTD. ("ChipMOS" or the "Company") (Nasdaq: IMOS) filed a lawsuit on September 27, 2007 in Kaohsiung District Court against Walton Advanced Engineering, Inc. ("Walton"), alleging infringement by Walton of one of ChipMOS' leadframe package related patents which is primarily used for SDRAM and DDR I SDRAM devices.

ChipMOS obtained from the retail market several branded memory modules believed to contain memory ICs assembled by Walton and sent these modules to a professional appraisal institution for investigation. ChipMOS decided to file the litigation based upon the report of this professional appraisal institution, which concluded that the package device employed on the aforementioned modules infringed ChipMOS R.O.C. patent no. 200190 "1:3 Mold Type LOC (Lead On Chip) Package Structure and Leadframe Thereof".

ChipMOS treats intellectual property as one of the Company's important resources. To protect the rights of the Company and its shareholders, ChipMOS decided to file the patent infringement lawsuits against Walton, seeking NT$15 million in monetary damages at the initial stage for the losses ChipMOS suffered as well as a court order prohibiting Walton from using the allegedly infringing technology.
